

FINDING BALANCE

01/16/2022 “Can Christianity Teach Us Anything Unique about Racism?” By Dr. George Yancey

1. Dr. Yancey discussed two widely held approaches to racial reconciliation: colorblindness and antiracism. How would you describe or define each of these?
2. What are the disadvantages of these two approaches?
3. How does the third approach—“mutual accountability”—bring balance to racial reconciliation?
4. Read 2 Corinthians 5:14–21. The author, Paul, states that we should “no longer live for ourselves”, how does this reflect the path of “mutual accountability”?
5. How does being reconciled to God help build reconciliation with others?
6. Dr. Yancey stated, “education alone does not produce the results we want” when it comes to racial reconciliation. Why do you think this is? (Consider Genesis 6:5; Romans 3:10-11)
7. Read Psalm 51. What does the author state is the issue he faces? What is the solution?
8. Thinking back to 2 Corinthians 5:14-21, what transforms someone’s heart?
9. How does accountability help with transforming someone’s heart?
10. What is something unique that Christianity teaches us about racism?
11. What step or response do you feel God challenging you to take?
12. What are one or two ways you can open yourself up to accountability?
